

Second Six Weeks' Test Review

DIRECTIONS: Know the meanings of the following terms in preparation for your test.

- Plagiarism (Brain POP quiz)
- Paraphrase (Brain POP quiz)
- Assertion (Short Answer Notes)
- Evidence (Short Answer)
- Commentary (Short Answer Notes)
- Rhyme
- Imagery
- Simile
- Metaphor
- Personification
- Simple sentence
- Compound sentence
- Complex sentence

DIRECTIONS: Identify the type of clause underlined in the following sentences. If it is independent, write "IC" by the sentence. If it is dependent, write "DC" by the sentence. Then, you must identify which structure of sentence is shown. Your choices are simple, compound, or complex.

1. In Scarlet Town where I was born, there was a fair maid named Barbara Ellen.

Sentence Structure: _____

2. She made the boys cry because she was so beautiful. Sentence Structure: _____

3. In Australia a "sheila" is a term for a young lady, but a young man is called a "bloke."

Sentence Structure: _____

4. There are two enclaves in South Africa. One is called Swaziland, and the other is Lesotho.

Sentence Structure: _____

5. Until he's had his coffee, it's best to just wave at Coach Wujek before 8:00 A.M.

Sentence Structure: _____

6. Make sure that Mrs. Johnson has at least smelled her coffee before making direct eye contact.

Sentence Structure: _____

7. Bugs Bunny once replaced the Road Runner in one of Warner Brothers' cartoons.

Sentence Structure: _____

8. "When you go out to dinner, whether you're paying a little or a lot, you expect to have a good meal with decent service. Sometimes, due to actual bad food, or just a meal that is less than what you expected, you get something else entirely. Before you jump up from your table and scream for the manager, try the polite and civil route."ⁱ

Sentence Structure: _____

9. A capybara is native to South America and can weigh up to 100 pounds.

Sentence Structure: _____

10. If you want your students to become better listeners, then you won't repeat yourself.

Sentence Structure: _____

11. In case you were wondering, I am wide awake now.

Sentence Structure: _____

12. We use the telescope that my son's grandparents gave him for Christmas to watch the stars out in the countryside.

Sentence Structure: _____

13. The ocean is so peaceful in the morning; I love to watch the waves lap over the rocks.

Sentence Structure: _____

14. You can't always foresee every food problem before you drive away.ⁱⁱ

Sentence Structure: _____

15. I have bad memories of high school science because Jimmy Badboy gave the frog Dr Pepper.

Sentence Structure: _____

16. Birds who have eaten too many bad worms will fly over the heads of naughty trick-or-treaters next week.

Sentence Structure: _____

17. After we drove away from the house, I remembered that the iron was still plugged in.

Sentence Structure: _____

18. The dog that ate the steaks from our grill lives next door. His owners who are real cheapskates won't reimburse us for the meat!

Sentence Structure: _____

19. During my morning run, I avoid Bane the Bulldog since he's the nasty mutt who wants to eat me for breakfast.

Sentence Structure: _____

20. Just when you thought it was safe to go back into the water, here comes Tunafish Man!

Sentence Structure: _____

21. While I waited in the reception area of the Westport Dental Association, I overheard the patient ahead of me screaming, "No, Dr. Numbfang!"

Sentence Structure: _____

22. The receptionist smiled thinly and kept typing as I thumbed through the magazines.

Sentence Structure: _____

23. Swallowing nervously, I decided to keep my appointment with him.

Sentence Structure: _____

24. The next few minutes oozed by like molasses rolling uphill in January as I sat in terrified suspense.

Sentence Structure: _____

25. The clock's hands movement was visible to my worried eyes.

Sentence Structure: _____

26. I put the magazine down and began wringing my shaking hands.

Sentence Structure: _____

27. When I stood up and walked to the counter, the door suddenly opened.

Sentence Structure: _____

27. I jumped back about three feet, and the woman laughed maniacally. "Not nervous about visiting the doctor, are you, dearie?" she taunted.

Sentence Structure: _____

ⁱ Dining Out: How to Complain. Essortment.com, 2011. Web. 21 Oct. 2011

ⁱⁱ Dining Out: How to Complain. Essortment.com, 2011. Web. 21 Oct. 2011